

Prof. Glenn Lyons

Glenn is the Mott MacDonald Professor of Future Mobility at the University of West of England, Bristol, UK. He is also Vice-President of the Chartered Institution of Highways & Transportation. He specialises in transport sector developments in the context of ongoing and uncertain social and technological change.

Glenn has been instrumental in bringing forward the 'decide and provide' transport planning paradigm and has co-ordinated the three-year pan-European project 'Triple Access Planning for Uncertain Futures' (<https://www.tapforuncertainty.eu/>).

He is a vocal supporter of the need for decisive and urgent action to address the climate emergency, and of equality, diversity and inclusion.
